NASE course, April 22-24th, Kazakhstan

Thank you for the valuable and thoughtful work you contributed throughout the recent astronomy course. It was a pleasure to observe how clearly structured and carefully considered each session was — both in terms of content and delivery.

We especially appreciated how accessible and engaging the material was for teachers with varying levels of prior experience.

Several participants shared their reflections with us, and one of them put it especially well: “It’s wonderful to see that for some people, sharing knowledge is a joy, not an obligation.” That simple line captured what many of them felt — genuine appreciation for the way the course was delivered, and for the people behind it
